REPORT ON AGENCY RELATIONSHIPS WITH UNIVERSITIES

RECOMMENDATIONS

1. Each Directorate review all its existing relationships with universities and "related institutions" on a case-by-case basis for "problem-potential" and to determine what changes are required and feasible.
2. Highly sensitive projects and contacts, in particular, be examined to ascertain their essentiality to the Agency's mission and to assure that good security procedures are maintained.
3. The Agency continue its practice of contracting out selected research and analytical projects to universities and "related institutions."
4. Cover not be required for all future contractual arrangements. Those which represent the conduct of overt Agency functions may be attributed to Agency sponsorship.

6. New funding mechanisms be sought to guarantee secure cover for the Agency's involvement in certain contracts and grants.

9. Agency relationships, both overt and classified, with university-associated individuals for the purposes of part-time employment or as consultants be maintained without change.

10. No changes be made in the Agency's various overt recruitment or external training programs.

11. As a general policy the Agency should not retreat, publicly or otherwise, from its relationships with universities. It should, on the contrary, take every appropriate opportunity to emphasize its moral obligation to consult the best minds in the country in performing its mission.

12. Finally, the Agency should consider launching a program designed to acquaint the public better with its overt missions and functions and the need for these activities.
